Allo-Tolerance for non-formal educators in peace building

Example of use

AEQUITAS participated in the training course "Changing realities" which took place in Slavonski Brod, Croatia as part of the project "Peacebuilding framework competence in youth work and NFE in Europe". The project and training course were organised from the organisation : Educational center – Krusevac (Serbia). The training aimed to empower and equip youth workers with competences to develop non-formal education activities in the youth work setting which support social transformation in community. This training Course was realized with financial support from EACEA (Education, Audiovisual and Culture Executive Agency) of the European Commission in the frame of Erasmus + programme and 13 countries were represented: France, Albania, Bulgaria, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Greece, Macedonia, Catalonia/Spain, Croatia, Poland, Serbia, Italy, Cyprus and Montenegro. AEQUITAS presented the Allo-Tolerance material to the participants(around 30 youth workers plus the organisers and trainers) and were encouraged to use it in their work with young people. We had an open discussion where participants posed questions and gave feedback on the tools they had been shown and the project more generally. The project was warmly received and participants spoke of developing a follow up to this project by using, in part, Allo-Tolerance tools.
